

Physician

Specialties:

Hematology

Medical Oncology

Board Certifications:

Internal Medicine

Medical Oncology

Texas Oncology-Austin
North Next Oncology

12221 Renfert Way, Suite
350

Austin, TX 78758

T: 737-610-5200

Metro Area: Austin

Spoken Language:

English

General Summary

Dr. Vandross is originally from Brockton, Massachusetts and came to Austin by way of Los Angeles in January 2020, from the U.C.L.A-David Geffen School of Medicine. He is trained and board certified in medical oncology and internal medicine. Dr. Vandross is excited to live in Austin and lead the Phase I clinical trial group at NEXT oncology, which will bring new anti-cancer treatments to patients living in the Austin-area and beyond. He is experienced in comprehensive discussions with advanced cancer patients, who are navigating the complex decisions surrounding novel therapeutics. Patient education in the context of Phase I clinical trials is his highest priority.

Education

- Fellowship in Hematology/Oncology
U.C.L.A-David Geffen School of Medicine, Los Angeles, CA
- Residency in General Surgery and Internal Medicine
Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, CT
- Internship in General Surgery and Internal Medicine
Yale University School of Medicine, New Haven, CT
- Medical Doctorate
University of Chicago-Pritzker School of Medicine, Chicago, IL

Research Interest

Dr. Vandross' research interests include Phase I clinical trials, development of new anti-cancer agents, as well as molecular genetic targets for cancer therapy.

Medical Practice

- NEXT Oncology, Phase I Clinical Investigator, San Antonio, TX (January 2020)
- University of California Los Angeles, Health Sciences Clinical Professor, Department of Hematology-Oncology, Los Angeles, CA (August 2017 – January 2020)